Trustees decide to keep area students in Minden

by Susan Grober

The people had their say, and the school board listened.

Trustees have approved a $5.9 million plan to build additions to each school affected by overcrowding.

In doing so, the board in effect rescinded its controversial decision to seek funding to build a new elementary school in Haliburton, and to change J. Douglas Hodgson Elementary School into a junior high school for all students in the county.

Instead, the board plans to build an addition to Archie Stouffer Elementary School in Minden, consisting of 12 extra classrooms, a double gymnasium, and conversion of the existing gymnasium to a library, at total of $3.5 million.

Also, the board will seek funding to add 13 classrooms to J. Douglas Hodgson Elementary School at $1.95 million, and at the high school add six classrooms, upgrade the cafeteria, and a double gymnasium at $2.95 million.

The decision was made during last Tuesday's meeting of the Haliburton County Board of Education, to address both current and future accommodation problems.

The board made its previous decision last October, but was later criticized by Minden and area parents and children who didn't like the idea of busing Grade 7 and 8 students to Haliburton.

In response, Minden residents Bryan Kernohan and Doug Campbell devised a fifth option, to build a new school in Minden, and add 18 classrooms to J.D. Hodgson, at a total cost of $5 million.

However, the board felt this option didn't adequately address accommodation problems at the high school, which is expected to face an excess of enrollment approaching 124 students between the years 1995 and 1998.

Even at present, the high school cafeteria is in desperate need of upgrading, a fact many

School board trims budget increase to 4.9 per cent

by Susan Grober

The average taxpayer will pay an extra $60 to help cover this year's Haliburton County Board of Education budget.

"That's five dollars a month, less than the cost of a pack of cigarettes," says Business Administrator Jim Bradley.

The board worked hard to trim its budget, and managed to increase expenses by only 4.9 per cent, despite increases in enrollment and wages.

However, with a sheer drop in provincial funding, that translated into an 11 per cent mill rate increase.

To provide an example of what this will mean to the local taxpayers, Bradley calculates that the average home in Dysart based on $750 worth of assessment will have an extra $60 added onto its tax bill.

The board's Management Committee began wrestling with the budget last November, and originally came up with an expenditure increase of 8.5 per cent. With the knowledge that provincial funding would be cut, the committee continued combing through the budget, and over the course of several meetings eventually brought the increase down to 4.9 per cent, a reduction of more than $515,000.

The areas hit hardest by the cuts include the purchase of capital equipment, reduced 81 per cent from $200,000 to $38,000. Bradley says the board is playing "a hoping game" that no essential equipment will have to be replaced.

But the cut many trustees found hard to

Two views of the NDP budget

Drainville calls budget historic

MPP Dennis Drainville says he is shocked at the quiet reception to the NDP's second budget, which was tabled in the Ontario Legislature last Thursday.

"I'm astounded," he told The Times in an interview on Friday. "It's a far cry from last year's response. It's rather neutral, it's a little easier to cope."

Last year the government came under heavy criticism from opposition parties and business groups for allowing the deficit to soar beyond the $10 billion mark and for trying to spend its way out of the recession.

This year, the government's budget increases spending by a modest five percent, cuts the amount of income tax paid by some businesses, and includes plans to trim the size of the civil service.

But the document also increased income tax for people earning more than $53,000 a year, increased the amount collected from taxes by $1 billion, slapped a $3.10 increase on 24 cans of beer and opened the way for legalized casino gambling in Ontario.

Drainville says the budget met the government's three primary objectives - creating jobs, maintaining services and keeping the

Harris says effort is not bad

The most notable aspect of the budget presented last week by Ontario's NDP government is how calm the reaction has been.

Even Mike Harris, leader of the Progressive Conservative party, says the document presented by Treasurer Floyd Laughren contained "some good rhetoric."

Just hours after the budget was tabled at Queen's Park last Thursday, Harris made an appearance at a local conservative party fundraising dinner at the Ops community centre, just outside Lindsay.

The PC leader was far more kind to this year's budget than he was last year when Laughren tabled his first effort.

"I was here last year, just before the last budget, and gave a warning," he told the party members. "My very worst fears were not only confirmed, they were surpassed."

"Last year the budget was 180 degrees in the wrong direction, this year it's only 170 degrees in the wrong direction. It's not as bad."

Harris commented on some of decision taken in the 1992 budget which are uncharacteristic for a political party which bills people learned when they attended the last accommodation meeting held in the cafeteria. While the cafeteria is only large enough to seat 125 people, there are more than 600 students at the high school, and only one lunch hour. At present, some of the classrooms must be used as lunch rooms.

At the elementary level, the board must address the needs of a number of students currently in located temporary accommodation.

At Archie Stouffer, there are 240 students temporarily housed in five classrooms at the primary school in the former Dollo's IGA building, and in seven portables. At Victoria Street Elementary School, 100 students are located in portables.

With the board's chosen option, all students in Minden will be accommodated at Archie Stouffer. And primary students in Haliburton will attend school at J.D. Hodgson, as the Victoria Street school will eventually be closed down.

There was little discussion last Tuesday, as trustees had previously considered the matter during a closed meeting. Before voting, some of the trustees offered their opinions on Option 1.

Trustee Wendy Ladurantaye said she doesn't like the fact that Option 1 will mean the two elementary schools will be expanded, because she prefers the idea of smaller schools.

"I would support the multi-year forecast as it is written here in order to get our names on the ministry list for funding, but I'm not totally comfortable with the option," she said.

"I feel that as a board we've discussed all these options and ramifications in detail," said John Munro. "We've been told what to do, we've received much guidance. All options have merit... I feel that Option 1 in the short term will address most concerns, and at least alleviate the problems."

"We've agonized hour upon hour," said Cheryl Murdoch. "We only have X number of dollars to spend on these students. Maybe we would have chosen the Cadillac version if we could afford it, but this is the best plan now" in this time of fiscal restraint.

"The thought that we'd entertain this is very good," said Mary Anne Wilson. "It's a good solution to our present problems. I don't believe it's the best option — I prefer to maintain smaller schools. However, I do feel that Option 1 is a good choice."

"This is a compromise for the board," said Len Salvatori. "I was in favour of a 7, 8, 9 school. But I know politically it's not good to send your students (to Haliburton) from another town."

In a recorded vote, 11 trustees voted for Option 1, and three (Wilson, Elsa May, and Nancy Dunford) voted against. One trustee, Gayle Murphy, was absent from the meeting.

Following the meeting, Doug Campbell said the board "should be congratulated for having the courage" to go back on its previous decision, and for choosing Option 1.

"I feel that it was a good decision. It keeps the children in Minden until they're ready for Grade 9, which was the aim of our proposal."

"It's a more expensive option than Option 5, but we were not pushing Option 5 as anything but an alternative," he said. "We wanted to put forth something that was positive, and not negative — to give the board something else to look at."

The county's smaller schools will soon expand

by Susan Grober

Haliburton County's small schools will eventually be getting bigger.

During last Tuesday's board meeting, trustees unanimously approved a plan to expand the Dorset, Gooderham and Wilberforce elementary schools to Grade 6, by adding one grade per year.

The plan will reduce costs, maximize revenues and maintain or improve the quality of education, trustees were told in an administrative report.

Normally, Grade 5 students at Gooderham and Wilberforce would proceed to J. Douglas Hodgson Elementary School in Haliburton. However, if 21 of these students stay in their respective schools, a portable would not be required at J.D. Hodgson next year, which would mean a savings of $30,000.

Almost half of the students at Dorset Elementary School reside in Muskoka. If the Dorset school expands to Grade 6, the board would save $6,000 per student in tuition fees paid to the Muskoka board. At the same time, the local board would gain $6,000 for each student residing in Muskoka who would attend the Dorset school.

If the plan were completely phased in, in the third year the board would save approximately $50,000, while earning about $50,000 in revenue. As its new costs would be about $50,000, the net difference would be $50,000.

Another advantage of the program is that it allows children in all three communities to stay close to home for more of their time in school, and spend less time on buses. Parents in all three areas who attended public meetings on the matter all found this to be a major benefit.

Trustee Len Salvatori

asked how the students will receive courses such as French, which are offered at the higher grade levels. "We'll have to deliver French," explained Saunders.

Tim Casey asked whether any changes must be made to the school to offer sports programs. Chairman Nancy Stinson said there is a community centre nearby each school in question.

John Munro pointed out to trustees that the people living in the areas in question favour the plan. "It's not as if we're doing something for the board at the sake of these communities."

Director of Education Brad Saunders said some parents have said they're willing to sacrifice certain programs in order to keep their children close to home. Although some parents feel otherwise, "the response we got was by and large quite supportive."

"I feel this is a very commendable move," said Wendy Ladurantaye.

High school will switch to semester system

by Susan Grober

The Haliburton County Board of Education has approved a plan to introduce a semester system at the high school in September of 1993.

At present, students take eight courses which run throughout the entire school year, from September to June. Under a semester system, students will take four courses from September to December, and four courses from January to June.

With this change, the time a student spends in each class will increase, with periods running from 40 minutes to 76 minutes long.

Haliburton Highlands Secondary School Principal Peter Forgrave says he recommended the switch in January because he saw a need for change.

"I felt that our present organization does not meet the needs of our school as well as a semestered organization would," he says. "There are certain advantages to using a semester system."

The semester system will break up the students' courses into two blocks.

"They're dealing with fewer teachers in a semester system," says Forgrave. "At any given time, students will be dealing with four teachers instead of eight teachers," and teachers will be able to get to know their students better.

Forgrave says the longer periods will slow down the pace in the school. And the program will be better for new kids in the area who come to the high school in the middle of the year, by making it easier for them to catch up.

"It gives two entry points in the school year," says Forgrave. "It will be advantageous for students to come in January and start fresh, otherwise they're plugging into the middle of the program."

Also, students who don't do well in such core courses as English and math in the first semester will be able to pick up on them again in January. "So by the end of the year, there's a good chance they can be on line with the rest of their schoolmates."

And there are a number of adult students enrolled in the high school. For these people, a semester program will mean "they'll only have to reorganize their day in order to pick up their subjects for half a year, rather than a full year," Forgrave says.

"In a nutshell, as things change in education, the needs of the school change. And I think that we have to change the organizational pattern to keep up with this sort of demand."

The present system of 40 minute classes doesn't give teachers enough time with their students, says Forgrave.

"It's difficult for teachers, especially with larger classes, to spend more time with individual students."

Before deciding in favour of the change, trustees visited two high schools in Lindsay to get an idea of how a semester program works.

One of the schools, I.E. Weldon, has been semestered for several years. The other, Lindsay Collegiate Vocational Institute (LCVI), will begin offering some of its senior level courses on a semestered basis, as well as keeping others on a year-long basis.

"One reason for the change is they were losing a number of senior level students to I.E. Weldon, so they could graduate earlier and get a jump on the job market," says Forgrave.

The staff at Haliburton high school will require a great deal of preparation for the semester system, says Forgrave.

"There will be a lot of in-service training for teachers, to learn how to deal with the changes. It will mean a dramatic change in teaching styles," he says.

"That was the reason why my recommendation was that we begin in 1993. By then, we'll have the opportunity to be ready for it."

During the board meeting, one trustee suggested that some general level students may have difficulty sitting through each class for a longer period of time.

When asked by The Times if there will be a problem with students who have poor attention spans, Forgrave said the teachers will receive proper training to handle the longer classes.

"The key is learning teaching methods that suit a 76 minute period," he says. "If teachers don't learn how to deal with a student, it doesn't matter how long the class is, there would be a problem."

Having longer periods will enable teachers to deal with each student on an individual basis, and will offer students the advantage of "learning to sit in class for a longer period of time, and to deal with things in more depth."

Forgrave also says the change to a semester system is to benefit all students. "The issue isn't focussed on advanced level students."

And he adds that most schools in the province are now using a semester system. "It's not like we're trying something experimental here."

Another part of the transition process over the next year will be informing parents through public meetings, says Forgrave. "We know there will be lots of people with lots of questions. The process of change takes pain and a lot of hard work. But there are a lot of people looking forward to it. I think we'll see some real positive results from it."

"I felt our present organization does not meet the needs of our school as well as a semestered organization would," says Principal Peter Forgrave.

Board predicts bleak future

by Susan Grober

The Haliburton County Board of Education had expected the worst when the provincial government announced increases in transfer payments of only one per cent in 1992, and two per cent in each of 1993 and 1994.

"It comes as a shock then to realize that when the grant regulations are applied to our assessment base, our grants from the province decrease by over $500,000 in 1992, while student enrollment increases by four per cent," says Nancy Dunford, chairman of the board's Management Committee.

"This reduction in grants by itself reflects an 11 per cent decrease, and necessitates a 4.6 per cent increase to the 1992 budget. This, then is the problem facing us — higher costs and lower revenues."

Business Administrator Jim Bradley explains that the province's grant formula is based on equalized assessment across the province, which isn't necessary an accurate reflection of assessment in Haliburton County.

For instance, the board is eligible for a $2.9 million grant for its secondary students. However, the ministry uses an equalizing formula based on mill rates across the province to determine that the local share is $3.7 million, meaning the local taxpayer has to pay for a shortfall of $809,000. Last year, the shortfall was only $372,000.

"They're flushing more and more of the share down to the taxpayer at the local level," says Bradley. "Not only are the grant rates down, but they're making you pay more and more of the local share, which is hidden."

The board's expenditures have increased only 4.9 per cent. The total expenditures will be $16 million, and the increase over last year's budget is $744,324.

"But more to that translated onto the taxpayer, because of the loss of revenue," says Bradley. "That portion is totally out of control."

Even if the board's expenditures saw a zero per cent increase, it would still translate into a five or six per cent increase in the mill rate. "It's the revenue base that's dropping, as much as the expenditures going up," he says.

swallow was in repairs and maintenance, which is reduced by half, from last year's figure of $255,000 to $129,000;

"We're under a lot of pressure to get things as low as we can," says Trustee Tim Casey. "But you're fooling yourself if you think this is an area to cut."

"For one year, we can get by," says Bradley. "It's an area where you can get by a year or two without thinks getting critical."

If the board comes across a program that can save money, it has some reserve funds to use in this area. "It would have to be a project where there is some lucrative funding we could take advantage of," says Bradley. "Maybe a 50-50 proposition."

The following are other major expenditures which have been reduced in this year's budget:

- even though enrollment at the elementary level has increased 9.4 per cent over the past two years, staffing is frozen at 1990 levels;

Province leaves board in the lurch

the county are actually dropping each year, Bradley has great concern for the future.

"I don't see it getting a lot better," he says. "That's what bothers me. We tried very hard to keep the budget at a very reasonable level, and yet not cut programs."

Bradley says other boards have cut such programs as shop and family studies. "It probably wouldn't be much of a savings to us, because if the students aren't in those classes, they have to be somewhere else," he said.

"But if things continue the way they are, the board will have to cut some of these programs."

Many larger boards are announcing either low or no budget increases. But Bradley says these boards are cutting out expenses which don't exist for the less affluent Haliburton board.

For example, Hastings County has cut 23 people out of its support staff, which includes such employees as AV technicians.

Peel Region laid off 150 teachers, and eliminated its Junior Kindergarten program.

• while enrollment in the secondary school is projected as slightly higher in 1992, staffing will be reduced by one compared to last year;

• instructional supplies for classroom use have been frozen at the 1991 level, even though there is an increase in student enrollment;

• staff in-service training has been reduced 52 per cent, from $71,000 to $34,000.

Despite all these major cuts, the board is faced with several factors which lead to the increase in expenditures.

Salaries and benefits make up more than 60 per cent of the budget, and expenses in this area will increase almost 13 per cent to more than $13 million.

This year, the board will be moving into the second year of two-year collective agreements with all its employee groups. These agreements imply expenditures in the area of five per cent, Dunford said.

Trustee Len Salvatori called the 11 per cent mill rate increase "unacceptable," and said the committee should have aimed for a 10 per cent increase.

"I'm not happy with this budget either, and I sat on this committee," said Wayne Wood. "But we cut it to the bone. The only thing left to cut would be staff."

Salvatori said the board has a PTR (pupil teacher ratio) "that's as low as you can get in the province... I don't want to cut staff, but if you want to get real about it, that's what you've got to do."

However, Bradley explains that PTR figures include not only classroom teachers, but also other staff such as principals, vice principals, and music teachers.

"We do have one of the lower PTRs, but we have small schools, and if you have small schools mathematically it all works out," he says.

"More important than that is other boards have a whole slew of superintendents, consultants, French language consultants, etc. We have no consultant, and one superintendant for the entire board." As a result, our teachers have more responsibilities than those at other boards, says Bradley.

Previously, Salvatori had suggested opening up the teachers' contracts as a way of keeping expenses down. But Bradley says this is not an option at the present time.

"We did have a brief discussion with the (teachers') Federation, but they've been given instructions by the Ontario Federation that they are not to open their contract," he says.

To do so would set a precedent for other Federations in the province. "They would be ostracized," Bradley says. "And, being part of a small board, they need support, too."

"The only way we could do that is if the province had made some consideration for opening contracts after they've been signed," says Bradley. "It has to be provincially mandated. It can't be done on a local level."

However, Bradley feels the recession will mean changes in the future. "I think the teachers will realize that the days of getting a six and seven per cent wage increase are over."

Other expenses the board has no control over include:

- a 98 per cent increase in Workers' Compensation payments (the maximum level has gone up from $31,000 to $59,000, and the rate increased from 51 cents per $100 to 54 cents);
- an 11 per cent increase in Canada Pension Plan payments (from $632 to $696 per employee at maximum); and
- a 43 per cent increase in Unemployment Insurance premiums (from $1,000 to $1,432 per employee at maximum).

"These increases alone have added over $100,000 to board expenditures," said Dunford.

The board passed the budget during last Tuesday's meeting, with only Salvatori and Wood voting in opposition.

Haliburton County does not offer Junior Kindergarten.

This year the Muskoka board will put a halt on its normal procedure of banking $5 million each year, which will mean a reduction of eight per cent.

"We didn't have the luxury of doing any of that," says Bradley. "To make reductions like that, you have to have something to cut out."

As well, Muskoka may run its Kindergarten program on alternative days, rather than half days. Our Kindergarten students already go to school on alternate days.

The Muskoka board is also considering only running buses on main roads, forcing many of its children to walk up to a mile to these points.

Bradley says most local parents would balk if such a practise were introduced in Haliburton County.

"It really all depends on how much the taxpayer is prepared to pay for education," he said. "But I do feel that our kids should get the same advantages and same education as in any other board in Ontario."

Last week's decision by the board of education to reconsider its accommodation plan and proceed with a different option is welcome news.

By re-examining their earlier decision to establish a junior high school in Haliburton Village to serve students from across the county, trustees demonstrated their political courage. Perhaps the only task more daunting to a politician than making a tough decision, is having to take a step backward once a tough decision is made.

There will still be some people - especially those who have placed fiscal responsibility above all other concerns - who will be opposed to the board's new decision, but it's unreasonable to think, that with an issue this complex, it's possible to please all the people all the time.

The debate which has surrounded the school accommodation decision for the past months is an indication of the changing relationship between people and government. Citizens have become increasingly unwilling to be governed without being involved, from the earliest stages, in the decision making process.

In the case of the board's decision to expand local schools, critics were upset at option chosen by the trustees, but they were also dissatisfied with the process used to come to that decision. On issues of major importance effecting the future of the community, we are no longer content to stand by and place their faith in politicians to do the right thing and represent the interests of the constituents.

This same attitude is also being expressed toward the provincial and federal governments and, judging from the number of committees which have been touring the province recently to gather public input on everything from the constitution to child care reform, senior levels of government have quickly caught on to the value of consultation, real or perceived.

Instead of viewing this new public attitude as a threat to their authority, politicians at all levels should welcome the input of an interested constituency and encourage the involvement of the electorate on vital issues at all times, not just during election campaigns. Making those tough decisions will become easier when people understand what's at stake and are able to clearly communicate their priorities, as was the case with the school accommodation issue.

And local residents, encouraged by the outcome of their efforts with the board, should continue to stay informed about the issues which affect them and speak out to either support or oppose the direction taken by councillors and trustees.

To agree with PM leaves bad taste in his mouth

I'm the kind of guy who can eat just about anything on a plate, but I must confess there's one dish I have never developed the stomach for.

Raw crow.

I hate it when I have to eat crow — admit I'm wrong about something, I mean. But it happens. And when it happens, I reckon the best way to do it is to take a deep breath, close your eyes, pinch the nostrils shut...and swallow. So here goes:

I agree with Brian Mulroney.

WOW! That tastes awful!

It's true, though. I do agree with the Walking Mandible — about one thing, anyway.

Tobacco.

A few weeks back, a young lad from Kingston, Ontario wrote to the PM urging higher taxes on tobacco products. He got a letter back on Prime Ministerial stationery that said in part, "we don't like smoking either and we hope to tax it out of existence someday."

The signature at the bottom of the letter read: "Brian Mulroney".

And that's what I agree with Brian Mulroney about: that the world would be a better place without the tiresome, noxious and expensive junkie tradition we refer to as smoking.

I speak not as some pink-lunged ponce who wouldn't dream of sullyling his lips with a ciggie. My lungs have processed more smoke than Dofasco's Number Three Smelter. For more than a quarter of a century I inhaled pretty much anything that would fit in my mouth and burn slowly. I know all about smoking.

And I also don't speak as an enemy of the tobacco (more on page 7)

Service clubs can pitch-in to help hospital

Editor:

So, we are in for another review of our little hospital.

The last time it was threatened with closure a large segment of Minden's citizens attended a public meeting sponsored by the Legion to show their support to keep it viable.

It is an important part of our community, and statistics aside, cannot be sacrificed because it operates $124,000 in the red.

However in the face of adversity, where there is a will there is a way.

What a wonderful opportunity for all our service clubs to work with the community to sponsor Minden Hospital and make sure it operates in the black.

At the risk of being criticized, one suggestion is, that under the leadership of the Rotary Club to make the Bingo a community endeavour, which would share the workload among many, and perhaps vitalize the membership in all the clubs if they knew their efforts were supporting such a cause. Perhaps Haliburton could adopt a similar program for their hospital.

With the community sponsoring the hospital with deeds and dollars, what better way to keep our hospital in business without adding to local taxes.

If the current Government can sponsor gambling casinos to help pay for multi-million projects, and bail outs, surely Minden can be the mouse that roared.

Loyalty of Quebecers cannot be bought

Editor:

A vote of "no" to Canada from Quebecers in their referendum will be a disastrous and sad day for Canada. Should Quebec decide that they can do better for themselves by not being a part of the greatest country in the world there is nothing we can do about it. We certainly cannot buy their loyalty.

This situation has been created by politicians, but the people of Canada must make sure that they do not answer "yes" to a national referendum that will give Prime Minister Mulroney full bargaining power with Quebec.

The following is one solution offered by a senior who has always been proud of every part of Canada: Should Quebec decide to separate we should sever all economic ties and civil rights, including passports. In order to maintain links with our Eastern provinces Canada should retain jurisdiction over the Trans Canada Highway and a quarter of a mile on either side, the rail link with the East should be treated in a similar manner.

Since Quebec has shown little interest in settling land claims with its Native population all land claimed by the aboriginals should remain a part of Canada. After Quebec assumes its part of the national debt we should wish them well.

There are those who say that separation will cause violence. We should address this problem by not being too proud to ask the United Nations for the same type of peace-keeping force to oversee our jurisdictions in Quebec as we have often participated in.

The rest of the provinces should forget their differences and start addressing our economy and the needs of the many who dearly love Canada. It is my hope that Quebec will vote "yes" to Canada and that my grandchildren will live their lives as proudly Canadian as I have lived mine.

Pet owners must abide rules

To whom it may concern in my neighbourhood:

Would those people who have pets running at large, please abide by the township rules.

At the present time I am on duty inside my home 24 hours and find it most annoying having to clean up after other pets on my property.

The flowers are blooming and they too are a pleasure to see but as these pets do not recognize private property the flowers are soon to be trampled down and destroyed.

I too have a pet but she does not run at large.

Thank you for your consideration.

Building department increases hours to accommodate boom

We're getting close to the active building season in this township.

To accommodate residents, seasonal and permanent, Tom Hubercheck, Chief Building Official, has announced that the Building Department will be open on Saturday mornings from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 p.m. on these days: May 23, June 6, June 20, July 4. Mark these dates on your calendar.

You will no longer have to direct deliveries to your house with "It's the house just down the street from where the library used to be with the brown roof...etc." Apparently some companies even refuse house deliveries unless there is a house number. Tom has exciting news for all Minden town residents. Minden buildings have been assigned numbers according to the official postal numbering system and a list with your personal number will be displayed at the Municipal Office and the Post Office. The Post Office notes that box numbers are still required. A sign of a growing community and a first for Haliburton County!

The public meeting held March 25 to discuss the Minden Water Supply Options was well attended. Information gathered was covered effectively by the local press and the next stage is to await the results of one more well test. The public who participated in the meeting thoroughly challenged the information presented. It is gratifying to your council to see the citizens of Minden present probing questions and brisk debate.

Your council prepared a position paper as a result of another productive public meeting held March 16 regarding the Haliburton County Board of Education School Facilities Proposals.

This paper was presented to the Haliburton County Board of Education on April 15 and your concerns at this meeting are summarized here:

* That all costs including busing and operating costs must be included in the decision process, not just capital costs.

* That Junior Kindergarten is not required or affordable during these stressful economic times and the busing of toddlers is particularly difficult and even dangerous.

* Some proposed options will require our children to spend a significant number of hours on the bus for several more years.

* Studies have shown a relationship between the number of miles bused and an increase in the number of accidents. Our citizens do not want to further jeopardize the safety of their children.

* Our students have indicated they prefer to spend those years of grade 7 and 8 in their own community schools.

Finally, the Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden receive many requests for donations to charities and projects. While your council has a policy of not contributing directly, we hope all our ratepayers will consider supporting worthy organizations.

Council is still working on the budget and the forecast is looking favourable for the municipal portion. Give a council member a call if you wish us to cover a particular subject in this column. Sincerely, Your Council.

Learning the truth a relief... well, sort of farmer, although I think what they do for a living is anti-social, immoral and flat-out wrong.

I know I'll get letters and phone calls from tobacco farmers telling me how hard they work and how tobacco puts their kids through college, but ladies and gentlemen, let's be blunt about this: you are dealing in death.

Tobacco is a drug. More addictive than heroin, according to the U.S. Surgeon General. Deadlier than alcohol, according to any family doctor you care to ask.

There are exactly NO health benefits from smoking. All the habit will get you is broke and, eventually, dead. En route you can expect to experience the pleasures of heart disease, emphysema, and cancers of the lung, throat, tongue and mouth.

Americans fork out $52 billion in medical costs per annum trying to repair the damage smokers do to themselves. And it's not enough. Smoking kills 430,000 Americans each year.

If that number is too big to visualize, try this: eleven hundred Americans die from smoking every day.

Here in Canada, the numbers are lightly less grim. We seem to be smartening up, thanks largely to the government tax on tobacco.

Only three years ago, Canadians were heavier smokers per capita than Americans. But since 1989, Canadian smokers have declined by nearly 25 percent.

Which is why I was...(boy, it still tastes bad) almost proud of the PM when he said he'd like to "tax tobacco out of existence."

Almost...until I read the follow up news story a few days later. Mulroney Aide Issues Apology the headline read. The story says that a prime ministerial aide had apologized for putting Brian Mulroney's name on the letter that was sent to the boy in Kingston.

It's pretty obvious what happened. Tobacco farmers were outraged about the letter and protested. Mulroney realized the tobacco lobby was more valuable to him than some school-kid in Kingston. Therefore, a few days later a staff flunky falls on his sword to preserve what's left of the boss's reputation.

Ah, that's more like the Brian Mulroney that I know! Anyone care for the rest of this crow sandwich.

PC leader will "wait and see" impact of budget itself as a social democratic party.

"There's some good rhetoric in the budget," he said. "It's sending signals that maybe (Premier Bob Rae) and Laughren are starting to understand."

"There are some shockers. Who would have thought the NDP would claw back senior citizens' property tax credit?"

Harris also said, although the phrase "user-fees" was not used in the budget, the government seems prepared to shift some responsibility for health care costs back onto the consumers. "Taxpayers can't fund 100 per cent of everything," he said.

The government cut the rate of corporate income tax paid by small businesses and companies in the natural resources and manufacturing sectors. Harris said that while the amount of the cuts do not amount to a lot of money they do send a signal that the NDP may not totally hate business.

Although Harris was not as outspoken about the NDP budget as might be expected, he still found plenty of which to be critical.

The NDP have called this budget "historical" because spending increased by just five per cent compared to last year, the lowest annual increase in Ontario in 39 years.

But Harris says the five per cent increase is still twice the current rate of inflation, which means the government is still taking a bigger slice of people's money.

And the five per cent increase in spending is more than the one per cent increase in funding the provincial government gave to municipalities, school boards and hospitals.

"Why do they need five times more than that?" asked Harris. "If the government had lived with the one per cent increase it told school boards and municipalities to live with, we could have had a $1 billion tax cut."

Harris said he doubts the NDP will keep the deficit to the $9.9 billion projected in the budget.

NDP still true to ideals says Drainville

deficit under control.

The government announced the creation of the $5.5 billion Jobs Ontario Fund which is designed to retrain unemployed people, upgrade the skills of workers, and create thousands of jobs with capital works projects and the construction of non-profit housing.

Calling the budget "historic", Drainville said the cost of health care will increase by just two per cent, as compared to average annual increases of 11 per cent during the last decade.

Total government spending will increase by just 4.9 per cent, the lowest increase in 39 years.

"To all the nay-sayers who say NDP governments are spendthrifts, we are increasing spending less than every Liberal and Tory government," he said.

The difference between this year's budget and last year's budget reflect the amount of learning the NDP has done during its first full year in power, Drainville said.

"There is a big difference between being an opposition party and being a government party, and we've never been anything but an opposition party," he said. "We've grown up a lot and had to make tough decisions."

But those tough decision do not mean the NDP has abandoned its social democratic principles. Drainville says in a better economic climate, the NDP would pursue goals like state run auto insurance but because of the recession expensive programs have to be put on hold.

"Here we are listening to people, and critics say we are watering down our principles, but if we had gone ahead with all the things we believe in, they would have said we were being unrealistic," he said. "You can't win."

Heating in the Winter. Air Conditioning in the Summer. It's all there, right under our Feet.

If you want to reduce your electric heating bill, look down at your feet. Now look a few feet further. Look at the earth itself. It could be your next source of heating and air conditioning.

Ground source heat pumps are designed to draw heat from the earth and pump it into your home. In the summer, the ground source heat pump reverses its operation. It extracts heat and humidity from your home and pumps it into the earth. The excess heat can also be used to heat domestic hot water or swimming pools and hot tubs.

This is truly the cleanest most efficient way to heat and air condition your home. And while ground source heat pumps cost more than traditional furnaces and air conditioners they soon pay for themselves with savings. That's why today's progressive home builders and renovators are specifying them for their clients.

Call us for more information about ground source heat pumps. You'll see that one of the most advanced technologies in heating and cooling is as old as the earth itself.

Actors serve up a slice of life with Bordertown Cafe

It was like being the proverbial "fly on the wall" for the audience which looked in on the three Highlands Little Theatre performances of Kelly Rebar's Bordertown Cafe last week.

The play provided an intimate and revealing insight into the bittersweet life of four members of a southern Alberta family, as they come to grips with conflicts which threaten to tear them apart. Those same conflicts ultimately provide the glue which makes their family bonds even stronger. Along the way, the audience is challenged to examine its own identity as Canadians and what this country really means to each of us.

Perhaps most revealing of all is the emergence of the finely hewn talent of the Highlands Little Theatre members, which has matured and grown. The group has now reached the point where it can dare to mount a play with a message and win the accolades it so richly deserves.

With this play, the local little theatre group has emerged from behind the mask of those light farces to show it has the talent for serious theatre. Not that the lighthearted fare was not appreciated. They were fun and served to get the fledgling organization off the ground and running.

However, this is the first time the group attempted and succeeded with a presentation of a serious nature.

While the obvious success of Bordertown Cafe rests on the shoulders of the four who captivated the audiences with their performances, the strength of the presentation is a result of the work of everyone involved, from director Nancy Robichaud on down.

Bordertown Cafe allows us to look in as a mother, played by Debra Dart, and son, by new-comer Chris Bradford, struggle with his desire to leave their dusty small-town life for the bright lights offered by his father, who has moved away to live with his new wife in the United States.

It's a classic confrontation which tests the youth's desire to cut himself free from what he believes to be the smothering influence of his present existence and the desire of his mother to protect him from the pitfalls of making a decision he could regret for the rest of his life.

The two grandparents, played by Irene Lubowitz and John Miller, provide interesting counterpoints to the positions advanced by both parties in the dispute. They often find the argument they are espousing is completely opposite, but truer to their real convictions, to one they had advanced earlier.

The author has crafted the play to illustrate the differing values represented by the flash of the U.S. and the more sedate, but stable Canada.

Special mention must be made of the set and the staging. Both reflected the rich vein of talent to which the group now has access.

With Bordertown Cafe, the Highlands Little Theatre proved it need not rely on lighter fare to hold an audience. Working with a well-written script and a group of talented performers and technicians, they have proven that small town productions need not always be pie-in-the-face to succeed.

Bravo, one and all!

Production staff: director- Nancy Robichaud; assistant director-Catya Hynard; producer Doug Brohm; set designer Jim McLean; set construction John Lubowitz, Jim McLean, Joe Bradford, Doug Brohm, and Glen Scully; set decoration Jim McLean, Heather Scully and Doug Brohm; lighting designer Paul Douglas; lighting operators Joe Bradford and Glen Scully; costumes Jane Miller; props Eleanor Cooper; publicity Brenda Ellis; house manager Christine Lynd; reserved seating Heather Scully; posters Dale McConnell; stage manager Falina Pierson; prompters and assistant stage managers Carol Thompson and Eleanor Cooper.

Debra Dart and Chris Bradford portrayed a mother and son faced with the struggle of his desire to leave their small-town life for the city's bright lights in the Highlands Little Theatre production of Bordertown Cafe, which ran last week.

Senior curlers mark end of season

by Aileen Blears

"Thrice happy is he whose name has been well spelt." - Byron

Hopefully all the below-mentioned curlers will be 'thrice happy' when they find their names 'well spelt'. On Saturday, April 25, Minden Senior Curling Club members wound up the 1991-91 season with an evening of dinner and dancing at Deer Lodge.

Ralph Kennedy performed the master of ceremonies duties in his usual uninhibited manner.

Excellent door prizes were drawn for; one of these being a charming wooden reindeer which was carrying a lovely African violet. This planter was the work of Eby Bishop.

Team prizes were awarded accompanied, in some cases, by cat-calls and some less-than-kind remarks. This was all in good fun, however, and aimed only at those who were known to take a ribbing and to give one back. Trophies and cash prizes were given to the top rinks: the Lorne Coburn Trophy went to Sharon Kernohan's Ladies Wednesday Afternoon First Half, team of Marion Thomas, Clara Warren and Rene Codlin. The Eric Hardman Trophy was accepted by the Lois Adamson rink who won the second half of the schedule. On this team were Marion Thomas, Rene Codlin and Pat Mintz.

In the first half of the season, Hal Burton and his team of Jim Nightingale and Ralph Palmer came out on top, and for this the Bruce Scribner Trophy was awarded. The Ed and Peggy Pettinger Trophy was given to the team of Earl McDonald, Ken Walsh, Lloyd Coleman and Syd Adamson who were winners of the second half of the Men's Monday Afternoon League.

There were two trophies for the Friday Mixed League curlers. Friday at the Curling Club is a beehive of activity with curling going on from mid-morning to late afternoon. The Harold Morgan Memorial Trophy and the Kennedy Trophy were awarded to the top place rinks in both the first and second schedules. These were accepted by the skips, Mimi Carson for her team of Ed Pettinger, Nancy Cook, and Don Drewell and by Frank Codlin on behalf of his rink, Billie Shuyler, Bill Milford and Stella McMillan.

The Bill Donnelly Memorial Trophy was presented to Lloyd Boskett, Earl McDonald, Aileen Blears and Shirley Duff by Fern Donnelly and her son.

During the evening, the names of the three new directors were announced, these being Marion Thomas, John Warren and Ross Codlin. The 1992-93 Minden Senior Curling Club executive is as follows: President Harold McCarthy, Vice President Bill Milford, Secretary Muriel Harrington, Treasurer Angela O'Neill, Directors Frank Codlin, Eby Bishop, Aileen Blears, Ross Codlin, Marion Thomas and John Warren.

Dinner and awards gave way to dancing which ran the gamut from sing-along to rock to country and back again. Seniors can dance to ANYTHING! 99% of those attending had a wonderful time. The others?

Please note that there will be a General Meeting at the Club on Tuesday, May 12 at 7:30 p.m. Hope to see you there.

The Eric Hardman Trophy was won by the Lois Adamson rink. Accepting the trophy from Betty Hardman was Rene Codlin and Pat Mintz. Absent is Lois Adamson and Marion Thomas.

The Bill Donnelly Memorial Trophy was presented to the Lloyd Boskett rink. From left are Michael Donnelly, Shirley Duff, Lloyd Boskett, Aileen Blears and Fern Donnelly. Absent is Earl McDonald.

Grandfathers Four entertain residents

Activities started this week with Chapel Sunday night, conducted by Rev. John Burgess, and Alice Jones playing the organ. Thank you Rev. Burgess and Alice, it is appreciated very much.

Monday we enjoyed a quiz, "True and False", in the afternoon, and movies in the evening, shown by Tom and Dorie McAllister. They were "Stormy and Thoroughbred" in two parts. We thoroughly enjoyed them and thank Tom and Dorie very much.

Tuesday the Chapel was led by Pastor Fast, and we thank him sincerely.

Wednesday morning four of Mrs. Berry's students

Senior League

by Winnifred Barnum

came to Hyland Crest to show us dolls they had made from scrap pieces of material. Brandon, Michelle Robinson, and Marie Perrott, who demonstrated how these dolls were made rolling a piece of square cloth to make the legs, arms and body, and draping other pieces of cloth for clothing.

They are held together with cord. Thanks girls and Bonnie Berry for thinking of us, we appreciate it greatly.

Thursday tea party turned out to be a tea party and a birthday party. The ladies from the Royal Orange Benevolent Association provided the lovely lunch for the tea party. The St. Peter's Maple Lake ladies provided a beautiful birthday cake, and Minden's St. Paul's Church ladies the delicious fancy cakes.

This was Dora Dawson's ninetieth birthday and a complete surprise. Her birthday was April 23, 1992, and many of her family and friends came to honour her.

Harry Davis presented her with a plaque from the County. Rev. Brian Parker presented a letter of congratulations from the Minden Bishop and one from the Bishop of Toronto, also Congratulatory Messages were received from M.P. Bill Scott, and the Office of the Prime Minister.

It was a very happy day for Dora and we sincerely thank the LOBA ladies, and everyone who made this day such a success.

Louise Bishop went to Maple Lake United Church for the Baptism of her great grandson and spent Easter Sunday with Bruce Cook's family, they had a happy time together.

Thursday evening Nancy Briggs came and called bingo for us. We really thank and appreciate her coming.

Bill Payne, Eldon Deacon, George Smith, and Don Burch, were the entertainers for the Happy Hour Friday. Don and Ellen Holden were the volunteers with the help of Gregg Sawyer, caring for everyone's needs.

A special guest Friday was Lyle McKnight, who enjoyed the music of Grandfathers Four, along with the residents and guests. Thank you all.

Chamber to advertise on t.v.

by Brian Dean

Since being elected five months ago, our new Board of Directors has become a very cohesive working unit.

The Marketing Committee, comprised of fourteen dedicated members, has received full support from our Board, since its inception in December.

Due to the lack of funding for promotional campaigns over the past year, our main thrust during the past three months has been to get the name of the Highlands of Haliburton back into the tourism marketplace.

Firstly, due to a local letter writing campaign, Haliburton has gotten placed on many of the weathermaps of television stations serving our target market areas - mainly the golden Horseshoe.

Secondly, by using some of the funds left over from last year, we started running ads in the travel section of the Toronto Star and weekly blanket advertising in the rural weeklies to get our 1-800 number being used again. Thirdly, with an immense amount of help from County Council, the Department of Economic Development paid for our booth space at the Sportsmen Show.

By everyone working together at all levels of government, and the assistance of Bob and Marj Jennings, the show was very successful for us.

Unfortunately, financial restraints prevented the previous Board from producing a Destination Guide.

The Guide is used in so many ways; handouts at shows, in mailing packages and our promotional package distributed throughout Ontario and border points in Information Centres.

Thus we have had to produce a piece that will be used for the next twelve months.

The design and production of this piece are in the capable hands of John Gunning and Robert Van Nood. We will be around very soon to sell advertising spots in this very unique promotional piece.

To continue the tradition, we will be joining the Central Ontario Travel Association again this year.

For a fee of $2,000.00, our membership provides distribution of promotional pieces to all COTA Information Centres while, at the same time, providing funds for the hiring of 2 travel counsellors for the County.

The 1993 Destination Guide plans are well underway. The committee has chosen a company to produce the guide.

The company, yet to be approved by the board, will sell the advertising, produce and distribute the Guide. They will also be monitoring the distribution of the Guide over the next twelve months.

For the first time, the Chamber of Commerce, with assistance from local businesses, is planning to run a series of television commercials on CKCO television during the Spring, Summer and Fall.

At the present time, four sub-committees have been struck to look into the following issues: the plus-50 market; the decline of the snowmobile tourism trade; the long range aims and objectives of tourism marketing in the Highlands; the formation of a tourism training team to work with local merchants and their employees and the feasibility of a County Business Show to be held during 1993 in two locations in the County.

This year's Board and Marketing Committee have learned and are continuing to learn how to initiate and carry out many projects on limited budgets. We are becoming very creative for very little money.

For those of you living in Minden and Haliburton, keep your eye open to Cable 10 for all the upcoming events being sponsored by various groups and clubs throughout the County.

Beware of guide's dangerous claims

by Doreen Hawman

Health officials are warning against remedies and products listed in a herbal medicine brochure recently distributed in this area. The booklet, title "Medicinal Plant Guide", contains false and possibly dangerous claims, according to Health and Welfare's health protection branch.

The 20-page guide lists more than three dozen plant and herbal preparations it claims help treat everything from impotency to diabetes.

Authorities are concerned that this could easily divert someone who needs rapid, professional health care to a useless product, and possibly cause death.

This particular booklet was recently distributed in the Haliburton area, if you received a copy you would be wise to discard it.

The Food and Drug Act prohibits advertising cures for diseases or abnormal conditions.

The Haliburton County Information Centre is a local non-profit organization whose staff can help you find solutions to a variety of social and government problems by providing information or referring inquiries to the appropriate service.

For assistance call 457-2733 or Monday and Tuesday 286-4100.

Many agencies in the County need volunteer to help run their programs on a continuing basis or short-term for special projects. If you would like to assist, call 457-2733 to register.

Our leaders blind to scientific matters

As the 20th century winds down, environmental prognosticators fall into two broad camps.

One group (to which I belong) points to the approach of global ecological collapse, which can only be avoided by massive changes in the way we live. If we can't change, we will be dragged into a new reality of famine, food wars, disease and millions of refugees seeking escape from environmental degradation.

To do this, we first have to stop our denial and confront the stark potential of the path we are on and then map out a strategy to change direction.

The other group points to the unprecedented "success" of 20th century science and technology (S#T) in providing knowledge and power over our surroundings. Continued progress in S#T is expected to generate the solutions needed to avoid ecological catastrophe while supplying the necessary economic stimuli upon which modern life depends.

Both groups agree that S#T has an impact on every aspect of our lives and in every nook and cranny of the planet. Our inventions take us from the outer reaches of Earth's atmosphere to the bottom of the deepest ocean trenches, and nowhere can we avoid using our machines or encountering the toxic detritus of technological activity.

Whether we anticipate an ecological Armageddon or a technological Paradise, the important challenges of our time are scientific and technological.

Industries and politicians often demand ironclad scientific proof of the predicted hazards of global warming, ozone depletion and toxic pollution before they will act.

Yet as eminent climatologist Stephen Schneider points out, governments make huge commitments to the military in the face of total uncertainty about where, whether or what kind of crises will occur.

Ecological dangers, even if their precise details cannot be stated, are far more real than military ones. How can politicians and industrialists understand such matters?

We have to be scientifically informed in order to address the

Reflections

by David Suzuki

major issues of our time.

A politician without at least a rudimentary grounding in science and technology cannot possibly assess information to make informed decisions on ecological problems such as massive clear cutting of old growth forests, toxic pollutants in the Great Lakes, declining cod and salmon stocks, atmosphere change, energy options, agricultural land degradation and population growth.

Governments are already making multi-billion-dollar decisions on the future of biotechnology, artificial intelligence, space research and satellites, subatomic particles, fusion energy and telecommunications.

But when most politicians and cabinet members are educated in law and business, scientific literacy is a rare commodity. So what are their decisions based on? The recent abolition of a number of organizations with the arms-length relationship with government is informative.

The Economic Council of Canada espoused the kind of conventional economics as the basic need for study growth and the lack of an ecological base that is encouraging the global ecocrisis, yet the government felt it could do without the council's advice.

However, whether one believes in classical economics or Malthusian ecology, S#T remain basic factors to contend with right now and in the future. The Science Council of Canada was established to provide the kind of detailed analysis of S#T in the Canadian context that any far sighted society needs.

The government's decision to do away with the science council commits this country to flounder blindly into the future and make politics and economics the major factors behind government decisions.

I have been critical of the science council in the past because of the way politics has influenced the choice of its members. And its focus has been too skewed by over-representation of business and industry.

Nevertheless, it has been an important organization that has translated the arcane and often incomprehensible jargon of S#T into the vernacular. The science council at least was one institution charged with defining the central role of S#T in the modern world and providing some sense of historical and social context, critical analysis and vision of future implications of S#T.

As we prepare for a new millennium in which S#T will play a central role in global economics and in both ecological degradation and renewal, the role of the science council is more critical than ever.

Its abolition signals our leaders' total disinterest in scientific literacy and renders the future more frightening because it is filled with more uncertainties.

Dorset ministry acid rain report

The following report on precipitation events was recorded at the Ministry of Environment acid rain testing station in Dorset and compiled by Environment Canada.

This report covers the period of April 19 to 25, 1992.

April 21, 6 mm of rain fell with a pH level of 3.9. The airpath was Southern Ontario/

Eastern Ohio.

April 22, 4 mm of rain fell with a pH level of 3.8. The airpath was Southern Ontario/Western Ohio/Indiana.

Environmental damage to lakes and streams is usually observed in sensitive areas regularly receiving precipitation with pH less than 4.7. pH readings less than 4.0 are serious.

Public responds to provincial government's proposal for Child Care Reform at meeting

The last article we submitted for our monthly feature dealt exclusively with the proposed Child Care Reform process presently underway in the province of Ontario.

I am very pleased to report that the Town Hall meeting held in Lindsay on the 15th of April was well attended and participants (and audience) enjoyed a wide range of responses to the paper.

It was obvious that considerable effort was extended by agencies and individuals in preparing their endorsements and/or concerns. Sample responses included:

- support of the need to reform and the opportunity for commodity consultation;
- strong endorsement of the value of resource centres;
- reinforcement of the need for flexible child care for rural communities;
- endorsement of the stability inherent with base funding for child care centres;

CHACE Update

by Sue Valm, Executive Director

• concern regarding base funding and the burden created for tax payers; and

• concern about the direction of the Ministry to deny funding to commercial day care operators.

These examples represent only a few of the many responses and opinions.

The body charged with analyzing all the responses (and there will be thousands from across the province) will certainly have its work cut out for them.

Don't forget to watch for local Focus Groups currently being organized for your opportunity to respond to the paper.

Also a little closer to home, I'd like to take a few minutes to update you on what's happening at our centres.

tres.

If you've not done so already, it's time to renew lending library memberships at our Resource Centres.

Although our Resource Centres are free for anyone to use, we do have a toy lending library (featuring toys, video tapes, cassette tapes, children's books and adult reference books) that families can take advantage of for just $15.00/year.

This is a small cost for the privilege of borrowing any of our items for a two week period.

Membership also includes other perks such as workshop discounts and subscriptions to our quarterly newsletter.

Speaking of workshops, we feel privileged to be able to offer a Story Telling Workshop featuring the talents of professional storyteller Jim Blake.

The cost for members and non-members are $5.00 and $7.50 respectively.

The Haliburton workshop will be held on Wednesday, May 6, 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. at the Haliburton Resource Centre and in Minden on Thursday, May 14, same time, at our Minden Resource Centre.

I'm also thrilled to report that our Day Care Centre in Minden or rather our Day Care children, managed to raise over $500.00 for the Muscular Dystrophy Association. Not bad for a bunch of little ones hopping around! Way to go, guys!

Don't forget to pop in to our centres when you're in town or call our Head Office at 457-2989 if we can offer any information on the Child Care Reform process or any of our services.

All Staannworth's snowbirds return to northern home

The happy wanderers of Staannworth Court have all finally returned home.

Members of the Snowbirds who found their way back include Jean and Harry Cowen, Mabel and Len Trodd, Isobel and Bill O'Brien, Dolly Ashford and Carrie and Mark Vasey.

Those of us who kept the home fires burning welcome them.

Mel and Doris Foster enjoyed a five day bus trip down to Kentucky - no money was won on the horses but good weather and excellent meals made for a happy trip.

Sylvia Howard was also away for a few days - included in her journey was a visit to Canine Vision in Oakville.

Sylvia had an opportunity to see where and how the dogs are trained to assist the blind and deaf as well as those in wheel-chairs.

Once again this year the residents of Staannworth Court are aiding Sylvia in selling tickets on a draw, the proceeds of which will support the training of a seeing-eye dog.

Sylvia is also a loyal Blue Jay fan and while away attended a game in the Dome.

It was her first visit there. But there is really no truth to the story that the management has asked her not to return because the Jays lost the game, 9-0!

We welcome a new member, Dorothy Ashe, into our family. We hope she will enjoy our activities.

Our thought for this week:

The person is blest
Who does their best
And leaves the rest
And doesn't worry!
